INTERTECH INFORMATION MANAGEMENT, INC. ANNOUNCES APPLICATION SERVICE PROVIDER MODEL

Washington Document Service becomes first customer to outsource InterTech solutions

Dallas, TX, September 22, 1999 - Washington Document Service(WDS), a ChoicePoint cCompany, is InterTech's first implementation of an extranet designed to enable business transactions that involve documents over the web. WDS is also its first customer to outsource the deployment and maintenance of an electronic document management solution from the Atlanta-based software company.

"With more and more software vendors offering outsourcing as an alternate delivery method, we believe that Application Service Provider (ASP) models are becoming an integral part of the way technology companies will do business with their clients," said Steve Hindman, InterTech president. "We want to offer our clients solutions that meet their needs whether that involves an internal technology deployment or the ability to outsource and pay fixed, monthly fees."

WDS is a leading nationwide court document research and retrieval company which provides document research and retrieval services to law firms, financial institutions, corporations, media, accounting firms and insurance companies with publicly available court documents. In the case of WDS, InterTech established an online trading network allowing its customers to purchase court documents over the web. InterTech is managing the extranet and network maintenance so for a one-time set up fee and a usage charge per document, WDS and its customers can transact business online without the installation of software or hardware.

" Our clients simply log onto our website and purchase documents via a web browser. We don't have to worry about providing our clients with any special hardware or software or worry about maintaining the infrastructure ourselves," said William Barth, WDS' Director of Sales and Marketing. "We have a web-based trading network without the costs associated with developing, deploying and maintaining it internally. The set up fees are fixed and the variable usage fees are directly related to revenue. Outsourcing to InterTech is helping us achieve two key goals: to broaden our client base and respond faster to our customers--without having to worry about the technology backbone required to make it happen."

WDS' new offering also intends to save its clients copying and delivery costs, as well as time, stated Bob Light, WDS' General Manager . "By being able to download our documents directly from the web, our clients not only have the satisfaction of having their documents immediately, but they are also saving money by not having to have them couriered overnighted or faxed," said Light. "Delivering our court documents via a a web browser is just the tip of the iceberg. We plan on expanding our client services even further such as notifying our customer base via e-mail of new court documents which have been added to our library. We also plan on providing more sophisticated search tools which are clients can use when looking for a particular topic or case. We really want to fine tune our site to our clients' needs."

"We are seeing significant interest in the new outsourcing option and are working on several other opportunities where customers will likely choose to outsource rather than purchase their trading networks," said Charlie Cumbaa, InterTech Executive Vice President, Sales and Marketing. "InterTech helps companies harness the power of the Internet to speed delivery times, improve customer response and reduce costs associated with paper-based transactions between members of their trading community. By offering an ASP delivery model, our customers can take advantage of the most up-to-date technology without lengthy implementation cycles, large capital expenses or the ongoing maintenance burdens of the technology infrastructure needed to deploy these web-based solutions."
